Registration Days

Prospective new voters, who hope to take part in choosing the next president of the United States this fall, are being given plenty of chance to get their names on the County's registration books between now and Tuesday, Nov. 8.

As announced by the Board of Election Supervisors, County-wide registration dates, when all 66 precincts will be open from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m., have been set for Tuesday, September 13; Tuesday, Sept. 20; and Monday, Sept. 26.

Registration books are also open at the County Service Building in Hyattsville each Tuesday and Friday evening from 6 to 9 p.m. through Sept. 23; and at the office of Supervisors of Elections in the Court House at Upper Marlboro Mondays through Fridays from 8:30 and 4 p.m., through September 26. Sept. 26 is the last day for registering before the November General Election.

Any citizen of the United States who will have lived in the State of Maryland one year, and in Prince Georges County six months prior to the General Election and is or will be 21 years of age on or before Election Day, is qualified to register to vote.

For absentee voting (civilian) application must be made to Supervisors of Elections in Upper Marlboro by registered voters up to 20 days prior to Election Day. For armed forces absentee voting application is sent to the Secretary of State, Annapolis, Md., and applications must reach the Supervisors of Elections, from the Secretary of State, not later than 5 days prior to the Election.

Application for change of address within the County, or change of name may be completed at any of the above-listed places of registration.

The Supervisors advise that if "you have moved to Prince Georges County from another County in Maryland, and will have lived in Prince Georges County six months and in Maryland one year prior to the General Election, appear in person before one of the Boards of Registry at the above listed places of registration, fill out a cancellation form to cancel your registration in the County you were previously registered in and then register in Prince Georges County."

Police News Review

A loud and noisy party on Gardenway Saturday night had nearby residents registering complaints with the Police as late as 7:30 a.m. the morning after. The party resulted in eight people being charged with disorderly conduct and the owner with operating a disorderly house. All but the owner forfeited their collateral. The owner will face a court hearing.

A traffic accident involving three cars occurred near the Co-op gas station. One woman was treated at the scene by the Greenbelt Rescue Squad for a bruised elbow.

Chief Jim Williams is issuing a warning against loud mufflers. The police are trying to reduce and possibly eliminate loud mufflers in Greenbelt. A charge of Disturbing the Peace could also be placed if mufflers are too loud.

In a week to ten days, new police cars will be on the scene in Greenbelt. Chief Williams says he is expecting delivery of two new 1960 Fords with automatic transmissions.

Little League Tigers Meet Giants in Series

By Bud Dean

The National League Champs - DAV Tigers, take the field against the American League Champs - the GHI Giants - in a best 2 out of 3 world series games, starting Saturday, August 6, at 2:30 p.m. on McDonald Field. They will meet again on Sunday, August 7, at 2:30 p.m. - McDonald Field - and if a third game is needed, it will be played Monday, August 8, at 6 p.m., McDonald Field.

The DAV Tigers, managed by Lonnie Palmer and assisted by Al Nuzzo, have compiled a very imposing record, 15 wins - 1 lost, and one win against the Quantico Marines Red Sox. They have a well-rounded team, strong on pitching - with Bob Nuzzo heading the staff. Hitting power is supplied by B. Nuzzo, A. Nuzzo, D. Brautigam, and W. Palmer. The rest of the boys are capable of hitting the ball at any time - and the Tigers are looking forward to another world series win.

The GHI Giants, managed by Ray Hudson and assisted by Don Shegogue, have taken the Giants through a tough season with a 13 and 3 record. The mounds crew, led by Ray Hudson, will have the backing of such power hitters as Shegogue, this year's home run king; Butler, who is just starting to hit the ball; Feltner; and Hillabrand (a rookie who is having a fine year). The Giants have many more who are capable of breaking up the ballgame at any time. This should be quite a series, as both teams met last year, with the Tigers taking the honors. So the Giants are out to do some Tiger stomping this year.

Little League Chatter

By Bud Dean

Monday the DAV Tigers, warming up for the series and using next year's crop of players, had little trouble with the American Legion Cardinals, 17-9.

Tuesday GHI Giants, led by Shegogue's 2-run homer, wasted no time in wrapping up the American League pennant by downing Co-op, 20-1.

Wednesday rained out.

Thursday the Lions, keeping pace with the Indians for second place, clipped the American Legion, 10-0.

Friday with B. Nuzzo tossing a one-hitter, the DAV Tigers ended a very fine season, taking the National Guard Indians, 4-1.

Horses, Antiques Autos Enter Parade Line-Up

S/F/C Austin R. Green, parade marshal for the forthcoming Labor Day Festival parade, has announced additional entries to the parade line-up. Among the latest entries are three antique automobiles. A surprise unit has been entered by the County Fair Bakery of Washington, D. C. There will also be a well dressed and trained horse unit.

The Greenbelt Lions Club is among local service organizations which are participating, and the local bowling center and tobacco shop are among the city merchants who have agreed to enter units in the parade. A majorette group from Bladensburg will also march, and the Mount Vernon ambulance and fire truck may take honors as the unit coming from the longest distance.

The Prince Georges County Civil Defense Unit has signed up for a place in the parade line-up, as has the Greenbelt National Guard Unit, Battery B, 110th F.A. 2nd How. Bn.

Two of the four judges for the Labor Day marching event have recently been selected, S/F/C Green has informed the News Review. These include Harry C. "Curly" Byrd, former president of the University of Maryland, who is now chairman of the Maryland Tidewater Fisheries Commission. Byrd has served as judge for the Greenbelt festival parade in previous years. Also agreeing to act as judge for the affair is Captain Francis D. Alexander, Commanding Officer of Battery B, 110th F.A. 2nd How. Bn., the National Guard Unit which meets in the Greenbelt Armory.

Greenbelt Wins 10-9

The Shamrocks fought back to win in the ninth inning last Sunday at Braden Field, defeating a scrappy Beltsville team by 10-9. Richie Fonda belted a triple in the bottom of the ninth, scoring Bob Deller from first base, and then Fonda scored on a passed ball, giving the Shamrocks the win. Eight Greenbelt errors contributed to the nine Beltsville runs, as each team split in the hitting department, with 10 each. Butch Brown picked up the win, his seventh without defeat, after relieving Bill Moore, who went for the first 7 innings. Roy Lassiter, going the distance, was tagged for the loss. Greenbelt moves over to Burtonsville this Sunday, August 7.

Joint Committee Considers Parking Problems - - For Boats and Autos

By Virginia Beauchamp

Boats as well as pets have come under the scrutiny of the joint committee of the city council and GHI. Responding to continuing complaints of residents over the long-term storage of boats, trailers, and other large items in parking lots, on the streets, and in yards, the committee - meeting Monday night - requested city manager Charles McDonald to draft an ordinance for submission to the full council. It was the sense of the group that overnight parking of boats and trailers should be permitted but that any longer periods of parking or storage should be prohibited.

In solving the storage problem of boat owners, the committee suggested the possibility of their forming a boat club. It was thought that such a group might be able to arrange for a regular boat-storage space—perhaps in the area near the sewage disposal plant.

More Parking Spaces

The entire problem of vehicular parking space was also considered at the Monday night meeting of the joint committee. In general, one space per family is at present available, the committee noted—either in court parking areas or on the street. But the fact that many Greenbelt families now own two or more cars has made these facilities inadequate. McDonald and GHI manager Paul Campbell were delegated by the committee to survey possible areas for locating extra parking lots. They were also to study ways of handling the cost of constructing new parking areas. Since GHI home owners alone are involved in the need for additional parking, council members feel that the city ought not to carry the cost for such construction. All other residential developments in the city, it was pointed out, have adequate off-street parking.

Expansion of Play Areas

A further topic, which received only exploratory consideration Monday night was the problem of increasing play areas throughout the city. Repeated requests have been received by council for additional ball playing areas in particular. In discussing the cost of increasing the recreational facilities, the committee suggested that nearby residents might be happy to contribute a share of the financial burden for improved facilities to be used by themselves. For instance, a volleyball court might be surfaced with blacktop for the convenience of nearby residents at their request, if they in turn would agree to meet some part of the cost.

New Procedures

The committee requested McDonald and Campbell jointly to consider any new problem that might arise before bringing it to the attention of the committee. They were asked to prepare specific recommendations for the solution of such problems and to submit these recommendations to the full committee for discussion and approval. The group hoped that this proceeding might expedite their work.

Pet Ordinance

The ordinance governing pets has been drawn up and will be submitted to council at their next regularly scheduled meeting next Monday night.

New Dog Control Law In Effect Aug. 1

A new dog control law goes into effect Monday in the more urban areas of Prince Georges County.

Adopted by the County Commissioners earlier this month, the ordinance requires a dog to be under the control of its owner or custodian when the animal is out of the yard.

The law does not require a leash, but notes that a dog-biting incident shall be prima facie evidence the animal was not under control.

Affected by the law are residents in the metropolitan district of the Maryland-National Capital Park and Planning Commission, and several election districts adjoining. Municipalities within this area are included in the law's coverage.

Dogs, licensed or not, found running at large will be taken to the County animal shelter.

Majorette Festival

The majorette competition, to be held at the Greenbelt Armory on Aug. 27, is enlisting some support from the city. Instead of hiring chairs for the hundreds of spectators expected, the committee in charge, headed by Earl Thomas, 60-E Crescent, has requested that the city construct bleachers. The committee would reimburse the city for a share of the cost of such construction and the city would keep the bleachers as a permanent acquisition, subject only to the obligation that in future years those in charge of planning the majorette competition should have first priority in their use.

Further details concerning the majorette festival will be published in future issues of the News Review. The contest will be judged by nationally recognized judges.

Lassie League

With one game played last week, the Lions defeated the Tigers to take over the league lead. The standings up to date:

	W	L
Tigers	2	1
Athletics	0	2
Indians	0	2

Next week the Lassie League will play on Monday and Tuesday at Braden Field under the lights. The first game will start at 7:30 p.m. to be followed after a ten minute interval by a second game.

Men's Slow-Pitch League

At present a double elimination tournament is in progress with all but three teams still playing. The tournament championships will be played on Friday evening at 8 p.m. on Braden Field.

YOUTH CENTER RISES

Steel for the new municipal recreation building behind the swimming pool has been delivered and is now being hoisted into place. This work is to be completed by the end of the week. Weather permitting, the pouring of the concrete floors in the structure is also to be underway this week.

Babe Ruth Stars Lose

The Babe Ruth All Stars were defeated in their first game at Frederick last Wednesday by the score of 3-1. Greenbelt collected only two hits off the lefthanded curve ball ace from Baltimore while his teammates collected seven.

The Fire Department now leads in the two-out-of-three championship series. They have one game to none over the Co-op team.

McCauley's team scored an impressive victory in this game by a 12-1 score. The Fire Department won the first half championship and the Co-op won the second half.

Model Camp Wins Honor

By Bill Aleshire

Ten boys and one junior leader set up a model camp at Rosecroft Raceway during the fiftieth anniversary jubilee camporee and earned one of the top honor awards, which was 669 points out of 700 possible. Our specialty was making camp equipment requiring lashing. Tom Barron, District Executive, passed out the ribbons.

We would like to thank the town of Greenbelt for the use of their truck.

A Clean Greenbelt

Is Greenbelt a dirty city?

Although Greenbelt received a certificate of award a year ago for its participation in the national Clean-up, Paint-up, Fix-up contest, many local residents and city officials believe that the day-by-day maintenance of public areas in the city leaves much to be desired. And this is not for lack of trying by the city maintenance department. A considerable portion of the annual budget for the department goes toward removal of litter from public places. The Center itself is cleaned each weekday morning. Every Monday three men spend half a day cleaning up the gum and candy wrappers, the paper cups, and the other litter in the Center and around Braden Field.

A good example of the heavy cost to Greenbelt citizens of litter removal was the recent clean-up job after the Fourth of July weekend. Five schoolboys (on the city payroll for various special jobs during the summer) and one regular employee worked all day Tuesday, July 5, to clean up the debris left in the Center, in the parking lots, and at Braden Field after the carnival, the fireworks, and the crowds had left their mark. The clean-up cost for that one day was $66 in manpower alone—to say nothing of trucks and equipment.

A large share of the city's maintenance costs comes from deliberate youthful vandalism. The statue in the Center and all the underpasses were painted early this summer to hide the disgraceful mutilations through the past year. Almost at once, similar unsightly scribbles appeared. Although the new trash containers at the lake park resist accidental tipping by dogs or other animals, several have been deliberately overturned by boys, and their contents spilled all over the landscape.

The thought of the cost of the tax burden paid by parents of these vandals and by all the careless and careful adults for the carelessness of some seems to have had little deterrent effect. The practices still continue.

Yet, wouldn't it be wonderful to say again with pride, Greenbelt — what a lovely clean city I live in!"

Holy Cross Lydia Guild

The Lydia Guild of Holy Cross Lutheran Church wishes to announce the opening of their Thrift Shop on Saturday, Aug. 13 at 1 p.m. The shop will be open to the public at the rear of the Church at 22 Ridge. The hours will be from 1 to 4 p.m.

The Guild feels that they have many useful articles of clothing for all members of the family from babies to grown-ups. The items are priced reasonably, and there is room to try on the garments. The clothing represents all seasons of the year, so you can stock up now for fall or winter as well as purchase needed summer time.

The Guild hopes to serve a community need as a clearing house for used clothing, as well as to earn money for their various Church projects.

Sense of Achievement

by Warren Leddick

Man craves some area in life where he can excel and feel a sense of achievement. Because, like adventure, this experience is denied to most people in their work, they seek it in forms of recreation. Most people can reach this sense of achievement when and if they can find the right medium. Often this fulfillment is associated with competitive activities, especially games and sports; but it must be equally possible in other forms of recreational activity. Only a favored few can achieve outstanding success, but everyone can gain the satisfaction which results from raising his own standard of performance and increasing his skill.

This desire for achievement explains why a boy willingly spends time and energy and undergoes strict training in order to make the school team. A person feels a sense of accomplishment when he has mastered a difficult musical score or dance step, has found a long-sought specimen for his nature collection, has solved a difficult problem in designing the scenery for a play, has completed a service, or has even solved a knotty crossword puzzle.

Part of the fascination of many activities is the opportunity which they offer to utilize existing skills and their challenge to reach greater attainment. Interest in an activity often dies when it no longer affords opportunity for further progress. Much of the value of team games, choral groups, debating, and other group activities is that the achievements of the group are shared by the individual members, some of whom may have no means of gaining individual success.

FREEZER HINTS GIVEN

Proper handling and storage of food in home freezers is necessary to maintain the quality and wholesomeness of the product according to C. S. Brinsfield, Chief, Division of Food Control, Maryland State Department of Health.

"It should be remembered," Mr. Brinsfield said, "that a home frozen food cabinet or deep freeze is primarily a frozen food storage facility and not intended to be used to freeze large quantities of foods."

As a rule, the amount of food that can be "sharp frozen" in a home freezer at one time does not exceed one and one-half pounds per cubic foot of storage space. Consequently, if a large quantity of meat is to be purchased it should be cut, properly wrapped, and "sharp frozen" before it is placed in the home freezer for storage.

"Sharp freezing" quickly freezes the outer areas of the meat so that the juices are retained rather than lost through weeping. Before the sharp freeze process, the cuts should be well wrapped in heavy duty freezer paper, with packages as nearly air tight as practical to prevent dehydration in storage. Properly packaged and properly sharp frozen meat is not only nutritionally superior to poorly packaged or slowly frozen meat, but also in most instances has a better flavor.

Make Your Vote Count

(This column is a public service of the League of Women Voters of Prince Georges County, a non-partisan organization affiliated with the Maryland and National Leagues of Women Voters. Additional information on any topic discussed here is available from Mrs. Robert Wolf, President, SPruce 3-7321).

It's hard to write a column on voting and not drag in all the hackneyed phrases and flag waving that makes the average American yawn and turn the page. "Sure I vote," he says. "Let the guy who doesn't read this." Whoa there. Before you go, try to answer this. The last time you voted, did you express an opinion on each and every item on the ballot? Did you push the little levers next to every office and every amendment and every referendum appearing on the machine? You did? Fine. Then you were in the minority. In the 1958 general election, less than 23% of those voting gave an opinion on Constitutional Amendments.

In 1958, only two-thirds of the registered voters in the County cast a ballot. And who knows how many more people are eligible to vote (over 21 born or naturalized Americans and State residents for a year) but have never bothered to register? Figure it out. That means that a very small percentage of County residents indeed, perhaps 10%, perhaps 15%, voted to amend the Maryland Constitution and thereby passed laws which are binding on EVERY resident. Makes you think, doesn't it?

Now let's look at the other face of the coin. In 1950, a Constitutional Amendment was NOT adopted because too few people voted on it. That year, there was on the ballot a proposed referendum to call a Constitutional Convention to revise among other things the antiquated laws related to representation in the Maryland General Assembly. Only a small proportion of the people voting in the election voted on this particular item. Although the referendum was carried by a majority of those voting on it, the Attorney-General ruled that the legislature need not call such a convention. Why? Because too small a percentage of those voting in the 1950 general election voted on the proposal. The results? No reapportionment, leaving Prince Georges County with nearly 15% of the State's population with less than 5% of the representation in the state legislature.

Another example of the importance of voting the total ballot: In Maryland, any group which received at least 10% of the total vote cast at the last election constitutes a full-fledged political party. The managing officers of these parties, chosen by you, the voters, at the primary election, constitute the State Central Committee of each party. Although technically any voter may become a candidate by filing his name and paying the required fee, actually the State Central Committee of each party has much to say as to who the nominees will be. Election without party endorsement is considered almost impossible. The State Central Committee of the party in power proposes to the governor and to the county commissioners the names of appointees. You can see that this committee determines to a great extent both the elected and appointed officials in the County. In the 1958 general election, less than 29% of those voting made a decision on the membership of the State Central Committee.

You do not have to make up your mind about all the offices and amendments on the ballot during your brief two minutes in the voting booth. It is almost impossible to read and understand all amendments in such a short time. So read about the candidates and issues, make up your mind; make notes; take these into the voting booth with you. Your vote is counted only after you pull the handle, so you may correct your vote at any time before you open the curtain.

Before You Go by Jerome Weidman, published by Random House.

Benjamin Franklin Ivey. Remember his name. Julie Sarno did, even though she was just eleven when he entered the lives of her family. He came to them in his need—but when they needed him, he disappeared. Ben always disappears when the chips are down—mostly because he knocks them down himself. He doesn't understand the forces which prompt him to destroy the love he generates, first in the Sarno family, then in Julie's older sister, and finally in the one woman he should stay away from—a matured and embittered Julie. Julie's refusal to join the Ivey league of forsaken loves sets in action a dramatic and complex relationship with a man who is part saint, part demagogue, and wholly unforgettable. And if he reminds you of a late, great political figure—you're right!

highways and byways of the mysterious, controversial, but spell-binding world of present-day painting. The text, by the author of the recent volume on Klee, presents painting in its relation to the currents and crosscurrents of contemporary thought. (100 plates in full color).

In Pursuit of Poetry by Robert Hillyer, published by McGraw-Hill. This guide to the most elusive spirit of all—the spirit of poetry—is a new approach to its appreciation, drawing upon the rich works of the English poets for examples. It is through their voices that Mr. Hillyer describes the spirit of poetry, tells what it is, and explains what poets try to do. The mechanics of the poet's craft, appreciation through reading aloud, the history of poetic forms, (including a superb analysis of the sonnet and its effect on English poetry) are all explored here by a major poet whose rich and imaginative mind carries the reader along on a spell-binding search. There is also a history of poetry and a guide to the modern poets. Robert Hillyer, a Pulitzer Prize winner, and one of the most well-known American poets, is professor of English Literature at the University of Delaware.

Public Health in P.G.

(This column is a public service of the League of Women Voters of Prince Georges County, a non-partisan organization affiliated with the Maryland and National Leagues of Women Voters. Additional information on any topic discussed here is available from Mrs. Robert Wolf, President, SPruce 3-7321).

Prince Georges County has reason to be proud of its public health services. The Health Department has been listed by the Board of Preventive Medicine of the American Medical Association as one of fifty in the country approved for training of medical students and physicians who are preparing to enter the field of public health. Three medical students spent the summer of '59 at the Department. One studied chronic disease patients with a view to shortening their hospital stay, and the other investigated what happens to people who apply for financial aid to meet medical expenses only to find that they are ineligible. A resident physician spent some months on a diabetes blood-testing program to learn whether mass screening for diabetes is worth-while.

The Health Department is making great strides toward meeting at least minimum standards in public health care for County residents. The first citizen's health committee in the County was organized recently in Palmer Park. Its members have conducted a survey of pre-school children and, as a result, a child health clinic has been set up in the community.

The health officer has completed the writing of a housing code, and is now preparing ordinances relating to sanitation for day nurseries, barber shops, beauty parlors, motels and tourist courts. These will be submitted to the County Commissioners for enactment. The only existing ordinance is one for day nurseries.

Last year ten nursing positions were added and filled. This has made it possible to increase the number of elementary schools in the pilot school health program from twelve to twenty-five. An additional increase in the nursing staff is still necessary in order to extend the pilot nursing program to cover all schools in the county and to bring the ratio up to the standard of one nurse to 5,000 residents, as recommended by the American Public Health Association. The figure is now one nurse to 3,600.

There were some new jobs added: medical social worker to see to the hospitalization of chronic disease patients and the care of crippled children; sanitary engineer to deal with problems of pollution; an eye clinic for underprivileged persons (equipped by the Hyattsville Lions Club); a second chair in the dental division (equipped by the Bladensburg Rotary Club); a second psychologist for the mental examination is now being offered to court cases; an assistant director of public health nursing. These are only some of the changes and improvements. With the cooperation of County residents and organizations, the Prince Georges County public health services will catch up to the population in the next few years and will be a help in making the County a better place in which to live.
